Play games with local game inventor

BELOIT, Wis.—Looking for something fun to do? How about joining local Oshkosh game inventor, James Nigl, for a fun-filled day at OshCon!

OshCon is a tabletop gaming convention based in Oshkosh, WI. It will feature role-playing games, collectible card games, miniatures wargaming, dealer areas and more. This year, OshCon will take place on Saturday, Oct. 10 from 10 a.m.–10 p.m., and on Sunday, Oct. 11 from 10 a.m.–6 p.m. at the Gruenhagen Conference Center on the UW Oshkosh campus.

Nigl, the inventor of the lively Patch Products game, Repeat Pete![™], will be playing and teaching people how to play his game at the convention on October 10 from 4–6 p.m.

Repeat Pete! is a silly and wacky family/party game in which players repeat the actions of others in the exact order the actions were performed. The player who performed the last action is always Pete, and the next player must repeat what Pete did plus add a new action. The more players who succeed means other players have even more to remember and repeat. In this game, you'll see people doing things they wouldn't normally do. Imagine a player performing the following sequence before it's your turn: act and sound like a gorilla, say "Gimme a Kiss," dance like a ballerina, bark like a dog and swing an imaginary baseball bat!

Everyone will be laughing hysterically at all the funny actions and silly sayings in Repeat Pete! For more information on Repeat Pete! or James Nigl, visit patchproducts.com or call 1-800-524-4263.
