Patch Products' introduces the first construction toy that flies!

BELOIT, Wis.—You've never seen construction toys like these before! New from Patch Products are eight Überstix™ AeroForce Gliders™ that will have you reaching for the sky!

The Überstix AeroForce Gliders are a new line of flying toys designed to do one thing really well—FLY! Let your imagination soar as you learn about the basics of flight in the same way Wilber and Orville Wright did—through experimentation! Kids six and older will have hours of flying fun as they add more parts or take parts away and find the perfect balance to fly long distances or perform aerial stunts.

Constructed from light and flexible materials, the AeroForce Gliders have an incredible 13.5 inch wingspan and are designed to work independently or combine with other AeroForce Gliders to create bi-planes, tri-planes and much more! Kids can also integrate recyclable materials and other build systems that they might have to create bigger and better gliders.

Safe for both indoor and outdoor use, the AeroForce Gliders are extremely easy to transport, come with three different sets of instructions and have a SRP of $9.99.
