

• The 21 Best Toys and Games for Bored Kids •

Disney Family Fun

Our Favorite Things

BOREDOM
BUSTER
AWARDS

14 great toys, games, books, and more to cure the summertime blues

The Wheels of Drawing Fun

★ Squiggle

If the winning trifecta for toys is creativity, affordability, and fun, then the 16 activity pads in this line win hands down. Kids spin a wheel or follow an arrow on one of the themed pads (monsters, alphabet, sports, fashion) to get a drawing prompt: turn a wavy line into a cow, make the letter m into a picture, transform a preprinted figure into a lacrosse player. It's simple. Maybe that's why it's special. Ages 4 and up RandomLine, $5 to $15 each

— ELLEN HARTER WALL

Ready, Set, Go! Aaaand Stop!

★ 5 Second Rule

This addictive game challenges players to name three items in one of 576 categories (superheroes, spices, deodorants, and so on) within the title's time-frame. With the pressure of a timer, tripping over your tongue — or naming something completely unrelated — is hilariously inevitable. Three or more players. Ages 10 and up Patch Products, $25

— AMY KALDOR-BULL

